Beyond Beirut website upgrades to Web 2.0 standards

Beyond Beirut launches its new website and establishes a new type of online presence.

In partnership with the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID), the Beyond Beirut Association has upgraded its website. www.beyondbeirut.com is an online portal promoting Beyond Beirut values and supporting Beyond Beirut goals while bridging rural communities with the World Wide Web. The website is a step towards a new form of interactive communication that hopes to reach the Lebanese Diaspora.

The website covers topics such as the latest news within Lebanese Rural communities, what to do Beyond Beirut, the NGO news and The National Sustainable Tourism Development Forum; the website also mirrors articles found in the Lebanon Traveler Magazine and invite surfers to comment and interact. The feedback received will guide Beyond Beirut in its permanent quest to answer the needs of readers, communities and tourists.

Beyond Beirut organizes the Annual National Forum for Sustainable Tourism Development 2011

Preparations for the Beyond Beirut Annual Forum for National Sustainable Tourism Development scheduled for the 5th of October 2011 are under way. The aim of the forum will be to promote dialogue and linkages among tourism stakeholders (entrepreneurs, municipalities and tour operators...) in rural areas and between these stakeholders and national tour operators, with the goal of expanding sustainable tourism across the value chain to all regions of Lebanon.

Some of the exhibition participants to date are DHIAFEE program, LMT, Union of Jezzine municipalities, Bsharry and Zahle Municipalities, the Craftsmen syndicate, Byblos Festival, Youth Hostels, Jabal Mousa, and Coteaux de Botrys.

This Forum will be made possible with the support of the American people through the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) and by the support of sponsors such as ATTAL and SAAD Transport; the forum counts media partners such as Tourism Around the World, the Daily Star newspaper and Almightareb magazine.

Lebanon Traveler Fall Issue: In the Making

This season, Beyond Beirut and Hospitality services are working on an all new fall issue of Lebanon Traveler Magazine. This issue will unravel more beautiful regions, seasonal topics and interesting people. We will be looking at areas such as Zahle and Sour, digging for some hidden gems in the Chouf, exploring local food making and local customs as well as sharing our famous collections of breath taking photos.

This issue has been very exciting to work on for the team of Beyond Beirut and we are pleased to be sharing it with the public at the beginning of October 2011.

Look out for!

And now you can't say
